Nikita to Address U.N., Tour Six American Cities

Talks at End Of 10-Day Trip

He to Reject Khrushchev's Plea for Peking's Demands

GETTYSBURG (Reuter). — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is expected to press Communist China's demands in the Far East when he confers with President Eisenhower here next month.

Those demands include a free hand to act against Formosa; a withdrawal of American, naval and air power from the Western Pacific; recognition as a major world power, and a seat in the United Nations.

It was officially announced at the U.N. on Friday that Mr. Khrushchev would address the General Assembly on September 18.

The White House statement said Mr. Khrushchev will visit six American cities — Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines (Iowa) and a D.C.

He will be accompanied on his tour by Mr. Cabot Lodge, the U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

It is expected that the talks which President Eisenhower is to have with Mr. Khrushchev will take place after the latter's coast-to-coast trip.

Absolute Privacy

It is possible that when Mr. Khrushchev returns to Washington from his tour, the President will take him up to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Maryland, for conferences in absolute privacy.

Almost the only surprise in the announcement concerned the designation of Mr. Lodge to accompany Mr. Khrushchev on his trip. Mr. Lodge has been the U.S. chief representative to the talks since January 1958, and has earned the reputation of being one of the most outspoken critics of Communism in the world organization.

It was announced in Ottawa that Mr. Khrushchev has advised the Canadian Government with regret that previous arrangements prevent his visiting Canada after his trip to the U.S.

HAWAII BECOMES FIFTIETH STATE

WASHINGTON (Reuter). — The beautiful Pacific Island group of Hawaii on Friday became the 50th state of the U.S.

When President Eisenhower signed the formal documents it marked the end of 31 years of campaigning by the people of the multi-racial Islands for inclusion in the U.S. It was also the second new state to be added to the union within a year. Alaska became the 49th state last January 3.

Sabin Here as His 'Live' Polio Vaccine Tested Successfully

Jerusalem Post Staff
The first trials in Israel of "live" vaccine anti-polio inoculations have been conducted by the Ministry of Health's epidemiological laboratories.

This announcement by the Minister's spokesman coincided with the arrival at Lydda Airport on Saturday night of Dr. Albert Sabin, the U.S. virologist who developed the live vaccine. He is here for a 10-day visit as guest of the Ministry of Health, and will advise experts on the continuation of the trials.

The experiment was recently conducted on 46 children, of various ages, of Gaf and Galon kibbutzim. Half of them were given the vaccine in the form of a liquid, while the other half received a liquid without the vaccine. The children did not know which of them had the vaccine.

The experiment, unlike the Salk vaccine which is injected, can be taken orally in liquid or tablet form.

The inoculated children did not contract polio. It was found that the germ spread to the other children and to adult members of the settlements who had not been inoculated, but in this way were immunized.

The trials were begun in June by Dr. Natan Goldblum, Director of the Institute of Epidemiology laboratories where the Salk vaccine, now in general use here, is produced. The results of the experiment are now being analyzed.

The spokesman declared that the Ministry did not intend

Twins Born 2 Minutes After Mother's Death

LONG BRANCH, New Jersey (Reuter). — The Mount Sinai Medical Center here reported yesterday that a mother who died during childbirth was delivered of boy twins two minutes after death. The condition of both babies was described as good.

They were born last Tuesday. Mrs. Evelyn Garner, the doctor who performed the Caesarean delivery very said the operation was "extremely rare in medical history."

Seigni Confers With American U.N. Group

COMO, North Italy (Reuter). — Premier Antonio Segni on Sunday conferred with Dr. Konrad Adenauer, the West German Chancellor, with Dr. Gianni Cadeo, the American Friends of the Hebrew University.

In preparation for their coming talks with Mr. Eisenhower,

De Gaulle to See Kabyle Front This Week

PARIS (Reuter). — New developments in the Algerian situation are expected to follow General de Gaulle's visit there this week.

During his four-day visit, starting on Thursday, he will concentrate on the Kabyle mountain area where the clearing-up campaign is proceeding satisfactorily.

The military in Algeria have reported to General de Gaulle: "The armed rebellion can be put down by purely military means," but they themselves have never spoken of any date for the final suppression of the rebellion.

The foothills of the Kabyle region are now reported to be "free of rebel terrorism" for the first time in three years. An intensive combat higher up the mountains is still in progress. The Kabyle region is reported as the last "stronghold" of important rebel forces.

1.015 Out of Action

Since the operations started a month ago, insurgents killed or captured have totaled 1.015 with 587 weapons captured. While another 78 insurgents were killed in another operation near Aumale, 280 kms. south-west of Algiers.

The President, who is due in Bonn on Wednesday, wants a thorough airing of views on these issues before he begins his talks in Washington next month with the Soviet Prime Minister.

In addition, he is expected to discuss NATO affairs — particularly with the French President, General de Gaulle.

President Eisenhower is known to be keen to end differences with France over defence matters and to have a heart-to-heart talk with the French leader about his demand for an equal voice with Britain and the U.S. in overall Western strategy and nuclear policy.

The size of the Presidential party going to Europe is being deliberately kept to a minimum. This emphasizes the President's wish to have intimate talks without the atmosphere of formal negotiations.

The party will include Secretary of State Christian Herter; Major John Eisenhower, the President's son and Assistant White House Staff Director; Major-General Howard Snyder, the President's doctor; Mr. John Haynes, his press secretary, and possibly two or three other assistants.

W. Germans Uproot Frontier Defences

BERLIN (Eastern Sector) (Reuter). — About 30 persons from West Germany, in a "serious provocation," on Friday destroyed East German frontier defences near Erfurt, the East German Interior Ministry said yesterday.

The Ministry said in a press statement that the West Germans, equipped with wire cutters and ropes, arrived at the frontier in motor vehicles and destroyed "equipment for securing the frontier" in the area of Nordhausen, near Erfurt.

The West German news agency DAP reported that 12 concrete posts put up by the East German police on the border near Walkenried on Thursday night were uprooted and broken by unknown persons.

New Regime Stages Wadi Salib Rally

Jerusalem Post Staff

HAIFA. — The Hadar Cinema Hall which adjoins the Wadi Salib quarter was filled to overflow on Friday night by an audience come to hear two leaders of the New Generation party, Mr. Shlomo Tamir, and Professor Eri Jabotinsky. Most of the audience were Wadi Salib residents.

The law office of Mr. Tamir has assumed the defense of the four leaders of the Likud North African Immigrant Association, who will go on trial Monday at the Magistrate's Court here for conspiracy and assault of policemen in the performance of their duty during the disturbances of a month ago.

Public Benefactor

On the stage together with the speakers was Mrs. Nina Maman, wife of one of the defendants. She was loudly clapped when she said that her husband and his friends had acted not for their benefit, but in the interest of their community.

Prof. Jabotinsky called on the immigrants in Wadi Salib to organize themselves and elect their own leaders before someone appointed them. Their deepest commitment should see it that every father sends his children to school. "The end of the Mapai regime will not mean the end of your problem."

A loud "No" was the reply of the audience, when Mr. Tamir asked them whether they wanted unrest. He warned them "not to raise their hand, not to throw stones, keep the peace and don't react to provocation." He also urged them not to

Haifa Symphony Has Big Plans for Tenth Year

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The Haifa Orchestra is busy rehearsing for what promises to become its most ambitious season. A succession of local and foreign conductors and soloists of international fame have been brought to mark the tenth anniversary of the orchestra set up by the Haifa violinist and music pedagogue Zvi Rotenberg.

The Orchestra has acquired a permanent musical director, Sergiu Comisiona, formerly conductor of the Bucharest State Theatre. He has appeared in Romania and many European countries with most of Rumania's leading symphony orchestras.

The first concert of the anniversary series will be given at the Habimah Theatre in Tel Aviv on September 19 under the baton of Martin Rich of the N.Y. Metropolitans. The Negro soprano, Dr. Nedra York, Camilla Williams, will be soloist. Haifa will hear the same program on September 24.

This season's soloists include Joseph Schuster, cello; Benny Rabinoff, violin; Shlomo Mindri, flute; and Jon Wilson, piano. Thomas Sherman will be guest conductor for one of the series, while contracts are being negotiated for others.

THIRTY days have passed since the death of Chief Rabbi Yitzchak Halevy Herzog. He was a remarkable figure, although a natural modesty of disposition caused him to shun the limelight and a long-drawn-out final illness had caused the memory of his active years to fade while he was yet in office.

As a scholar he had vision and organizing ability as well as the knowledge and understanding, and the deep sense of duty, that produced a long series of carefully reasoned rabbinical judgements of importance from the legal and the scholar's point of view. He worked untiringly both to restate the law and to interpret it in the light of modern needs, but he saw also the need to have this work done on a larger scale. He thus became instrumental in the setting up of two research departments of the Harry Fishel Institute in Jerusalem, one of which has set itself the monumental task of compiling all the rabbinical judgments laid down during the post-talmudic era. In the same way he tried to put the training of rabbinical judges on a more systematic basis, and to give the rabbinical courts as such a more nearly contemporary face.

His approach was not revolutionary, but it recognized both the cohesion of the scattered Jewish communities, whose law must at least be coordinated, and the significant part that Israel is fated to play in this process. When the day comes for a serious attempt to re-evaluate the meaning of rabbinical law in the light of modern conditions, as it must inevitably do in a living Jewish community in Israel if Jewish law is not to recede completely into the background of the legal system, then the systematic compilations of Rabbi Herzog will be found to have laid an essential foundation for any progress. His personal contribution to these problems was made the more valuable by an often striking originality of thought, as well as deep concern for and insight into social problems.

Rabbi Herzog never entertained any doubt that his position permitted and required him to take an active part in the political evolution of the Jewish State. He attended the crucial Palestine Round Table Conference in London, visited the Vatican, and two American presidents, and gave evidence before the series of Commissions that convened in this country in the years before 1948.

Yet more remarkable than these activities was the man himself. He was one of the outstanding Talmudic scholars of his generation, a man of wide general learning, of keen scientific interests, conversant with many languages and cultures. A phenomenal memory and indefatigable industry enabled him to keep abreast of developments in widely divergent spheres. He was a humanist, a devoted servant of his people, a great lover of men. This Polish Rabbi was in his day one of the most popular figures in Catholic Dublin. He was a truly religious Jew, a man of great serenity of spirit, strong in moments of danger, strong in faith, kind-hearted, cheerful, and of unlimited readiness to help those in need. He was one of the most representative figures of latter-day Judaism and brought to his high office a contemporary attitude that took account of man's needs in this world as well as in the spirit.

Increased Production as Key to World Communism

By LOUIS FISCHER

THREE furious denunciations of Stalin's cruelties, inanities, murders, tortures, and blunders contained in Khrushchev's secret speech to the 20th Communist Party Congress are now missing from the new "History" of the Soviet Communists. The Party just published in Moscow, which shocked many Soviet citizens, especially the young Communists and non-Communists, and undermined their faith in Marxism and in the present Kremlin leadership which looked on helplessly and at the same time collaborated with Stalin's secret-lobby.

Voting by delegations illustrates Stalin's secret despotism. If the entire Congress had listened to the testament of the new Soviet power man, i everything. Increased production in a capitalist country according to the new "History," makes it impossible even if it processes no colonies. Increased production in the Soviet Union, despite poverty and class inequalities, has already lifted it to the threshold of a Communist society "on whose banner is written 'From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs.' On this high note the 'History' ends.

The Chinese Communists and radio were the first to modify—and moderate—Khrushchev's secret speech concerning Stalin's merits and to touch his faults, for they are in their own Stalin period of drastic industrialization and forced communism, and no liberal "revisionism" can be tolerated, witness the fact that the "hundred flowers" blossomed earlier before the Soviet masters of Russia's European satellites took the same view. Soviet imperialism is the last stage of Stalinism, and to depart from Stalinism is to weaken Moscow's hold on the bloodless Hungarian revolution of October, 1956, and the bloody Hungarian revolt of October-November, 1956, were not unrelated to Khrushchev's secret speech of February, 1956, and Khrushchev himself realized this when in December, 1956, he almost lost his grip because he had almost lost the two satellites. Since then there has been a gradual withdrawal from the de-Stalinization of the 20th Party Congress. Only a few people in the Soviet Union know the secret speech, although nearly everybody heard about it, but the new "History" of restoration of Stalin will have to be studied by millions.

Stalin Made Presentable

The difference between the 1956 secret speech and the 1959 "History" has enormous significance. In social terms it means that the Soviet upper-class technocracy, intelligentsia, and army officers corps are ripe for de-Stalinization (a greater measure of freedom), but the Kremlin's satellites, and hence with the West do not permit it. This is the fatal inner contradiction of Communism. The conflict shapes Soviet life and the entire international situation.

The new "History" washes the black stains from Stalin and makes him more presentable by drawing a curtain of complete silence over the Moscow trials, his shooting of thousands of army officers, and myriad similar manifestations of his prolonged tyranny. Positively, he is quoted scores of times with approval and given credit for every small and big accomplishment from pre-revolutionary days to his death. True, the assertion in the former official handbook, the "Short History" of the Communist Party, that Stalin presided over a committee which "practically led the entire uprising" of November 1917, is missing from the new "History." In the latter, Lenin made the revolution and Lenin is quoted copiously from Page 13 to Page 76, while Stalin and Khrushchev find a second place, as far as quoted wisdom is concerned. Moreover, Lenin's last will and testament in which he advised the party to get rid of Stalin as General-Secretary is cited. But its presentation is the key to Stalin's rehabilitation after Khrushchev's assault in Feb-

Economic Progress

The chief emphasis of the new "History" is on Soviet economic progress and the build-up of state power at home and abroad. Stalin receives full credit for having initiated this trend, and he continued it till Khrushchev took over. Thus Khrushchev stands on Stalin's shoulders and must therefore not diminish his size. Production statistics swarm over the news devoted to the Khrushchev period. The Kremlin slogan is "More," and it eclipses thought and ideology. The "Short History" gives to dialectical materialism and historical materialism 33 pages richly supplied with clarifying quotations from Engels and Marx and to a

Political Progress

The formation of one community of all "Jewish Christians" living in Israel would greatly promote the cause of Christianity there, added Dr. Enker. It had been one of his main concerns during his stay in Israel, but the various Protestant churches and missionary societies preferred to avoid the company of Jews in their own surroundings.

The work of the Allianz, whose International Executive Council met in Holland, its annual meeting in Holland a different country is chosen each year—was discussed by the Reverend D.H. Leuner, the Alliance's Secretary in Europe. He explained that "Jewish Christians" become the majority in Israel, and the most important group of the population. Should the state of Israel continue to prosper, with the large majority of its inhabitants not recognizing Jesus as the God's word was being fulfilled without Jesus Christ. "Not Rome and not Athens, nor Moscow nor Washington, must be the centre of our thoughts and eyes, but Russia is the point in which our eyes must be directed. Jerusalem, the mother of us all," concluded the Rev. Leuner.

Religious Progress

"Yet, though the number of Jewish Christians in Israel to-day is very small indeed," the Rev. Enker said emphatically, "it is important for the future of Europe and of the Western civilization that Jewish Christians become the majority in Israel, and the most important group of the population."

He said that the Jewish people that they did not want to forget their Jewishness or their Jewish heritage after their baptism, but were fully aware of them and wanted others to be aware of them.

bers to be full of love for the State of Israel, as well as their children will take care of the Sabbath," added Rev. Leuner. "We want to be active collaborators in the upbuilding of the Jewish State. At the same time, we also wish to give non-Jewish Christians a better understanding of Jews in the Diaspora. There are still many Christians today who are enthusiastic about the Jews in the State of Israel but prefer to avoid the company of Jews in their own surroundings."
